1.4 - Applying to host FEI competitions or events (inc FEI Calendar)

Applying to host international FEI classes or events

It is essential that an event wishing to gain international FEI status must have the support of the host country National Federation because the application and all formal communication will be processed through the National Federation. Details of all FEI affiliated National Federations can be accessed here.

The initial request to host an international competition must be submitted by the National Federation in accordance with Art 112 of the FEI General Regulations. The application must be submitted by the National Federation on behalf of the Organising Committee by October of the year prior to the event. Later applications can be made but will be subject to higher charges and specific considerations (see Art 112).

Many events rely primarily on competition entry fees to be financially viable (see Budgeting and Finance). For this reason it is essential to maximise the number of Athletes and Horses coming to your event. The date of the event is often the most critical factor in this. Organisers should work closely with their National Federation to identify and agree dates that will not be in conflict with similar events / competitions either at a national or international level.

Outdoor events can also be impacted by weather. Selecting a date to minimise this risk is important in these cases. Organisers should ensure they have insurance in place to cover costs in the event of cancellation / abandonment.

Once an application has been accepted by the FEI the event will be published in the FEI Official Calendar. The Calendar Registration Fee is due at this stage in accordance with Financial Charges determined and published annually.

FEI Schedule

The FEI Schedule is a document produced by every event to provide National Federations and Athletes wishing to compete with all the information they require. It lists details about the organiser, officials, competitions taking place, the venue and facilities available such as stabling, the entry process and other administrative points, veterinary, medical and anti-doping matters. The Schedule must be submitted to the FEI in accordance with Art 110 of General Regulations. Once the Official Calendar has been approved template schedules, checklists and guidelines for completing FEI Schedules are available to Organisers via the relevant discipline tab on the Organiser's section of the FEI website.
